“ I knew Sally at CVH back in the 80's and early 90's. I remember her kind way and fun sense of humor. We also spoke of our mutual love of chocolate! The world was a better place because she was here. She certainly made an impact on my younger self. My sincere condolences to her family.

“ Sally, I loved our conversations, the memories we shared of when we were younger. You will always have a special place in my heart. Not just a cousin, but a great friend, confidant. The Heavens have just received a special angel

“ To one of my longest friends, "Sally", I will miss you dearly and I am thankful that we got to speak recently. I also enjoyed our many meals at Checks Steak House over the years. Your assistance with many difficult situations in the line of work that we shared together was invaluable to me. Sally you will always have a special place in my heart and to your family I send my sincere condolences.

“ Counting the years that I have known you comes to 44. Our paths crossed in many ways. I have memories of your sage advice and of course your dry sense of humor. Hardly believable that you are no longer here.. I will still talk to you in hopes that you will be there for me in some way. My deep condolences to your family.

“ Sally was a beautiful person, both inside and out. She taught me as a child what love truly is and how to care for someone unconditionally. She was the mother that I never had as a child and it breaks my heart to know that she's gone. I will always miss and love her and never forget her, ever. I only wish I could have said goodbye.

“ Jason, I just want you to know that Sally loved you very much. She often spoke with me about you and the lessons about life she learned by having you as a part of hers. She was a very special person. I wish nothing but the best for you and I know she did too.

“ To Sally's family, please accept my prayers and deepest condolences on her passing. I worked with Sally for a number of years at the Hartford Community Court and found her to be one of the most joyous and wonderful people to have met. She cared so much for others, was so kind, and had one of the best sense's of humor ever. I'll miss her and never forget her.

“ I remember Sally--from 1961 to 1964. She was the most beautiful woman I'd ever seen. But there was a lot more to her than that. She was also extremely kind and gentle. That's a combination you don't see too often. I barely knew her. Just a few smiles and hellos. But she gave those to everyone.

With her looks, I cynically assumed she would end up married to a multimillionaire in the Upper East Side. To read her obituary and find out what she actually did with her life was shocking. Helping other human beings and little animals--in retrospect, it all makes sense.

Maybe Anne Frank was right. People are basically good. Sally certainly was.

“ I'm an intuitive person, so when I met Sally one afternoon last year I was so taken aback and attracted to her. It was the classic situation of spotting her across the room and being immediately drawn to her. I found myself standing near her and staring at her face so full of expression. As stated in her obituary, I was in the presence of a special person, beautiful inside and out. As we talked, I felt exhilarated to have met such a woman out of the clear blue. I just wanted to spend time with her, to be with her. And in the following weeks I tried, but to no avail. Although she enjoyed talking to me, she eventually made it clear that she could not enter into a new relationship while still grieving the passing of a man very close to her. She let me down softly, with kindness and great honesty. Many months later I ran into Sally, and she commented that "she thought of me every once in a while." I responded that "I thought of her a lot!" And I continue to do so. What a brief but memorable experience!
